Abstract: In this article, the role and importance of extracurricular educational activities in the formation of spiritual and moral education in the school is scientifically and theoretically analyzed.

Keywords: Didactic works, glorification of man, idea, education, honesty, generosity, diligence, kindness, charity, shame, seeking knowledge, rules of conduct, moral standards, etc.

It is known that during the Eastern Renaissance, the main issue in the spiritual and educational sphere was the human problem. That is why great attention is paid to educational issues. In the didactic works, the moral and spiritual perfection of a person, characteristic of the East, was the leading idea. Humanity, the idea of glorifying a person is considered the main core of the works related to education. As the main means of implementing this idea, that is, the idea of humanity, it is important to implement education and training that leads to formation of high moral habits, human relations and qualities. Because high moral qualities are expressed in the idea of humanity, the educational-ethical direction became important in the philosophy and pedagogy of the Eastern Renaissance. The issue of ethics has been the center of attention of philosophers, great thinkers, historians, poets and writers alike. Educative and ethical treatises were published, both theoretical and practical issues of ethics were analyzed. Yusuf Khos Hajib, such as "Qutadgu Bilig", "Akhlaqi Nasiri", "Qabusnama", "Hibbat ul-Haqayiq", "Gulistan", "Bo'ston", "Akhlaqi Jalali", "Akhlaqi Muhsini", "Mahbub ul-Qulub", The educational and moral works of Nasiriddin Tusi, Kaikovus, Ahmad Yugnaki, Muslihiddin Sa'di, Abdurahman Jami, Alisher Navoi, Jalaluddin Davani, Husayn Vaiz Koshifiy are important as purely pedagogical works created in the field of solving the problem of spiritual and moral formation of the human personality. In these educational and moral works, the idea was put forward that a person's spiritual maturity can be achieved only on the basis of mastering science.

Because since the period we are referring to, teaching literacy has been carried out along with the study of "Quran" and "Hadith" and assimilation of their instructions. Accordingly, the teachings of the "Qur'an" and "Hadith" influenced the work of both scientists and writers. The reason for the influence of hadiths is the special emphasis on universal human qualities. The important features of Islam put forward in them: honesty, generosity, dedication, kindness, charity, shame, seeking knowledge, rules of conduct, moral criteria, etc., were expressed and influenced the literature of the East, including educational and moral works. Educational and ethical works were created directly on the basis of the ideas put forward in hadiths. The influence of hadiths can be seen on the basis of Yusuf Khos Hajib's work "Kutadgu Bilig", Kaikovus' "Nightmare", Ahmed Yugnaki's "Hibbat ul-Haqayiq", Saadi's "Gulistan", Alisher Navoi's "Mahbub ul-Qulub" and other works. Both the idea, the content, and the form are evidence of this.

For example, in the "Quran", "Hadiths", and educational and moral epics, along with the definition of science, rules of conduct and manners of life are explained.

So, the promotion of knowledge, rules of conduct in Eastern education and training are based on Islamic principles, the similarity of contents in educational and ethical works depends on the spiritual ground on which they are based.

In the history of morals of the Muslim East, there were many pandnoms and folk books that served as a program and guide for human life about raising a perfect, mature person. We will list some of them. For example, we can show Kaikovus's "Nightmare", Saadi's "Gulistan", "Boston", Amir Temur's "Tuzuklari Timur", Abdurrahman Jami's "Bahoristan", Alisher Navoi's "Mahbulbul-Qulub", Husayn Vaiz Koshifi's "Akhlaqi Muhsini" and others. In most of these works, the righteous king and the eastern qualities of a person such as justice, honesty, purity, purity, correctness, truthfulness, humanity, and enlightenment are given.

Alisher Navoi's work "Nasayimul Muhabbat" lists the characteristics of a perfect person, his oriental qualities. Among these, the great thinker includes the following: repentance, contentment with an honest meal, making a living from one's profession, observing the Sharia, considering oneself inferior to everyone, not being rude even to one's children and servants, being soft-spoken - good, gentle-tongued, compassionate, to be generous, to be brave, to be meek, to be kind, to live contentedly, to be patient, to be loyal, to be faithful, not to be afraid to be sarcastic, etc.

Thus, in the past, a specific moral code of a perfect person was developed, and it was considered the dream of every person to have these qualities. Ideas about the perfect person had great socio-moral importance. It served to educate a person in the spirit of honor, goodness and great kindness, to strengthen love, loyalty and devotion. At all times, at every moment, they reminded people of their humanity, helped them to refrain from evil, vile deeds, inappropriate behavior and actions, and ensured the appearance of a building of faith and conscience in them.

The most important qualities characterizing the level of its formation are the following: intellectual intelligence, legal perfection, moral maturity, political depth, honest attitude to work, high cultural and spiritual level, professional pride, national and universal pride, etc.

Relating the above to our current independent life, lifestyle, aspirations of people, especially young people, we can generally state that the following characteristics and qualities are included in the perfect human traits:

General characteristics of a perfect person: cuteness, beauty, attractiveness, health, respectability, poetry, magnificence, originality, maturity, seriousness, civility, upbringing, etc.;

Moral qualities of a perfect person: humanity, friendship, care, passion, sincerity, humanity, childishness, faith, selflessness, politeness, modesty, kindness, forgiveness, hospitality, honesty, correctness, piety, avoidance of evil, hard work, patriotism and others;

In our opinion, inculcating these qualities and qualities in the minds of our young people is important in bringing them up in a mature, healthy and perfect human spirit.

A virtuous, perfect person who thinks in a new way in the spirit of independence should be, first of all, a person who has a great sense of civic duty. Simply put, every perfect person, every one of us: "What did this country, this society give me?" not that, but: "What did I give to my country, my country?" we should think and always live with this belief.

It is limited to improving the feeling of desire to study in order to make the person healthy and well-rounded in all aspects will not. It is necessary to form professional and labor skills in their minds, to educate general cultural knowledge, high spiritual and moral qualities based on national and universal values, to form loyalty to their homeland and people, to educate a sense of conscious attitude towards the environment, and legal consciousness. The "National Personnel Training Program" emphasizes the establishment of state and non-state educational institutions in cultural -aesthetic, scientific, technical, sports and other areas, as well as the tasks of improving the quality of education, improving its structure and content. This "State requirements for the organization of extracurricular education" was developed based on the "Law on Education" and the ideas of the national program, focused on the effective organization of students' free time from the point of view of education and training.

extracurricular education on the basis of our traditions, national values, in short, the requirements of the regions of the republic, expanding its network and reforming it at the level of modern requirements is an urgent issue on the agenda. Currently, based on new pedagogical and information technology laws, our pedagogic scientists are conducting relevant researches in the direction of developing various forms and methods of organizing education outside of educational institutions. However, this is not a static process. These "Requirements" serve as an important document in the preparation of programs and methodical materials, methodical manuals, educational literature in educational institutions, except for all educational institutions.
