The Book is a Noble Teacher

Porsieva Zamira Mukhtorovna, Ismoilova Markhabo Boisarovna
Teachers of Karshi State University

Abstract: This article discusses the issues that need to be addressed with young people to shape the reading culture that has become a global issue today, as well as effective ways to shape the reading culture of students.

Keywords: reading culture, storytelling, reading, exemplary words, reading angle, fairy tales.

Substantial ideas of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan Sh.M. Mirziyoyev "It is important for us to educate our children as independent, modern, patriotic people, with an independent life position, with modern knowledge and professions", requires great responsibility from each teacher. Because in the modern world, where development is rapidly becoming our way of life, complex methods and technologies have firmly entered the minds and minds of our young people. In this case, the teacher has a great responsibility to teach the student something new, to teach him to read and explore. [1]

Of course, the "Strategy of Action" for 2017-2021 also plays a worthy role in the development of reading in society, in solving existing problems in this area.

Admittedly, most people don't know the rules of reading, and there are people who don't understand why they are reading.

Wouldn't it be nice to find only those books that everyone needs, that can give them new energy and inspiration? Of course, we teachers want our students to read a lot. In our opinion, it seems to us not so correct that teachers focus on young people who read a lot of books. Because we have a saying that ten good readers are better than a thousand indifferent readers.

In fact, books are guiding stars in human life. If books do not give the reader even a little energy, courage, spiritual purity, then every hour spent reading will be in vain.

As the king of the property of the word, the great poet and thinker Alisher Navoi wrote, "a book is a noble teacher, the main source of knowledge and spiritual growth". In the language of our people, much is said about the importance of reading books, getting an education and getting a decent upbringing, studying a profession. For example, “Mind without books is a bird without wings”, “Knowledge is the light of reason”, “Beauty is in science and enlightenment”. Such wise sayings can be continued endlessly.[2]

Undoubtedly, being a friend of the book and not neglecting reading the book is an important factor in making people educated, well-mannered, professional and, of course, happy, which has shown people the right path for thousands of years. Especially, books have a special place in the life of our youth. Because a good book inspires love for the Motherland, respect for national and universal values, encourages kindness and mercy.

In fact, there is no substitute for books and reading. Reading broadens a person's horizons and plays an important role in gaining respect in society and among people. The book is a friend, a constant companion, an inexhaustible treasure for any person who has realized himself. The book is an announcer of the past, an enlightener of the present, a guide to the future. In the writings of our ancient thinkers, it is often said that the career and position of the person who is friends with her is always at the peak of fame.
Alisher Navoi, the sultan of poets, was five or six years old when he began reading “Mantiq uttayr” by Farid ad-Din Attar. Of course, the role of the book in his further ascent to great heights and perfection was invaluable.

It is especially important to publish children's books that will help them develop and grow in all respects, and paying attention to the culture of reading from an early age is a modern requirement today. We can say that the special attention of the head of our state is to solve the problems of publishing and distributing books, to popularize the rich history of our country, its unique culture, national values, to meet the demand for textbooks, special and fictional literature, to select the best works of our writers and poets and translate them into other languages, translating selected works from foreign literature into our language is also an important step in raising people's morale, especially in teaching young people to become perfect people.

It is known that the role of the book in meeting the intellectual and spiritual and aesthetic needs of young people, in particular, in educating young people of independent, strong-willed, truly patriotic and spiritually mature people, is invaluable.

Although we cannot imagine our days without the advanced technologies of today's information technology age, it is gratifying that among our peers there are young people who are friends with books. We are happy to see people with books on the streets and in vehicles. Unfortunately, it is wrong that sometimes young people waste their precious time, especially playing too many computer and mobile games, watching meaningless films. Instead, it might be wise to schedule your extracurricular activities for productive work. It is especially important to set aside certain parts of the day for useful reading. Because "Science acquired at a young age is patterns carved in stone" and books read in youth can be useful in life even after many years.

It is a mistake to use the book as a tool for entertainment or out of boredom. The book fosters the human spirit as a factor that satisfies the needs of the mind and heart, and is the main motivator in the formation of his personality. In the process of reading a book, a person can memorize not only with the mind and eyes, but also can keep in memory, while at the same time keeping the mind awake. The purpose of reading a book is to understand its content, to feel the meaning in it and, thus, to receive spiritual food. Reading a book does not allow the appearance of spiritual emptiness in a person, therefore anyone who reads a book can become a highly spiritual person.

Итак, дорогие молодые люди, читайте книги. В конце концов, если книга является проводником на жизненном пути, она будет плавно и счастливо течь по неровным жизненным путям.

List of used literature:
1. Mirziyoyev Sh.M. "Together we will build a free and prosperous democratic state of Uzbekistan".