Introduction

The study of children's literature of the period of independence plays an important role in the formation and development of the Uzbek artistic style, in the education of spiritually mature personnel. The "National Personnel Training Program" of the Republic of Uzbekistan specifically defines the issues of forming a new generation of personnel capable of promoting and solving the tasks of the future, having a high general and professional culture, creative and socially active, having the skills to independently achieve goals in socio-political life. To study literature means to study, to study, to perfectly educate the future generation.

The word literature literally means "good behavior". However, this term is widely and narrowly used today, and in a sense, these two concepts are inextricably linked. At some point, we see this connection. That is, in the word "works", which combines these two concepts, such terms as "agricultural literature", "technical literature" include works and articles in this field, and "fiction" refers to works of art (novel, short story, short story, poems, epics).

We considered it appropriate to talk about fiction, more precisely, about children's literature, which is a part of it. The outstanding literary critic O. Sharafiddinov writes in his article entitled "Literature begins with language": "Without color, there will be no literature without language, like without music without the tone of fine art. Literature is called humanism.

A deep understanding of literature, a keen understanding of the power of words as powerful as poetry is a purposeful path for the reader.

A number of scientific studies by N.V. Vinogradov in the study of the mastery of using language, the unique style of creativity, the language skills of Anna Akhmatova, A. Pushkin, N. V. Gogol, N. A. Nekrasov, L. N. Tolstoy, K. Fedin, K. N. O Paustovsky, as well as the research of G.O. Vinokur of the peculiarities and methodologies of poetics of Mayakovsky, E.M. Galkin, Fedoruk, S. Esenin, I.S. Turgenev deserves attention.

In this regard, the work on the study of poetry of Uzbek children's literature is of great importance. In particular, the study of the language of fiction, familiarization with the issues of literature of the period of independence, the study of literature is one of the important tasks of literature in the training of mature personnel.

In Uzbek linguistics, the founder of the Uzbek literary language, a number of scientific works are devoted to the study of the artistic interpretation of the work, the study of the creative language and style. Thanks to the dissertations on the study of the language of the works of Navoi A. Respect for the work of Navoi, the effective use of works on the work of mature thinkers in the processes of higher and secondary specialized education plays an important role in developing the capacity of the workforce level.

The use of aspects of A. Navoi's works in poetry, their expressiveness through the art of speech is also used in children's poetry of the independence period. The study of the analysis of O. Damin's poems about Navoi in children's poetry of this period, its study ensures the relevance of modern literature and linguistics.

Linguopoetic analysis is one of the most effective analyses, especially as a linguopoetic analysis of a literary text. Revealing poetic actualized linguistic means in a literary text is also an important principle. Revealing the linguistic and artistic essence of such tools, one can clearly imagine the formation and expression of artistic content, revealing its artistic essence.

We have tried to consider the language of the work of linguopoetics as a science that studies the manifestation of the exact aesthetic function of language on the example of "Children's Literature".

Alkar Damin's poem "The Genius Poet", which is part of the series "My Legendary City" by Zarkalam Publishing House "Tashkent-2016", is based on the works of the great thinker, the sultan of the words of A. Navoi. The poem consists of 5 verses and rhymes with the words: sultan, son, patron, monk. In the poem, the word "kelur" is repeated at the end of each verse.

In the process of reading the poem, the poet successfully used pictorial means based on the poet's inner experiences through the poem, skillfully depicting the experiences of A. Navoi. Here are the following verses from verse 4:

Sen ona tilimning sherdek homiysi,
Sen bu til binosin topolmas Moniysi,
Nomingdan dimoqqa ming xil gul isi,
To abad atirli xush navo kelur.

The art of analogy was applied through the verses quoted above. The art of analogy is used through a combination of the patron saint of the poem quoted in the verse "You are the left-like patron of the mother tongue." That is, the participation of analogy in the language of a work of art is expressed by grammatical means: "dek".

Ey ash'or mulkining buyuk sultoni,
Ey o'zbek xalqining suyuk o'g'loni,
"Xamsa"ng boz yozirtmish she'riy samoni
Lutfiy shod "Dunyoga ne navo kelur!"

In the process of drawing, the poet used the technique of figurative expression through poetry, that is, the art of periphrasis. Periphrasis is also dedicated to the spirit of sublimity, solemnity, which, in the process of depiction, forms wonderful artistic expressions for the artist. The poet Alkar Damin did not describe in words the name of the great genius, but his great son, his beloved son.

Studying the works of mature thinkers and scientists, promoting our national cultural heritage, deeply assimilating our traditions and customs, developing the knowledge of our students and pupils, studying our historical heritage will play an important role in the future.
